3Q 2026 Financial Results

Strong Financial Performance with Growth Across All Key Financial Metrics

- Gross revenue and net property income increased by 5.8% and 5.4% y-o-y, respectively
- This was driven by the commencement of new leases, built-in rental escalations in existing leases, and the contribution from Dover Marketplace and Wallingford Fair Shopping Center, which were acquired in August 2025 and January 2026, respectively
- Finance costs were higher due to additional borrowings taken to fund these acquisitions, partially offset by lower interest rates on the floating rate loans
- Overall, year to date 9M 2026 distributable income is higher by 3.6%

U.S. Total Retail Sales[1]
(Monthly % change y-o-y)

U.S. Grocery Stores[1]
(Monthly % change y-o-y)

- U.S. retail sales growth slowed in September but still beat expectations, rising 0.8% month-on-month. Excluding autos and gas, retail sales rose just 0.1%, down from 1.1% in August, which was revised down 10 bps[2]
- Overall, the September data shows consumer spending and the broader economy remain resilient, but momentum is slowing heading into the fourth quarter as higher gas and energy prices squeeze budgets. In September, the Federal Reserve raised rates 25 bps to 3.75% – 4.00%, its first increase since 2023. With inflation still elevated, wholesale price pressures building , and consumer spending staying strong , another 25 bps hike is expected[2]

Strip Centers Lead Foot Traffic Growth Among Retail Property Types

Foot Traffic by Retail Property Type
(Indexed to 2019)

Strip centers have consistently outperformed all other retail property formats in foot traffic since the pandemic, experiencing smaller declines, recovering more quickly, and ending 2025 with foot traffic 4% above 2019 levels. While a 4% increase over six years is solid rather than exceptional, it stands well ahead of every other retail format. A-malls, the second-best performer, remained nearly 3% below their pre-pandemic foot traffic levels in 2025.

U.S. Market Update

Strong Retailer Demand Underpins a Healthy Leasing Environment

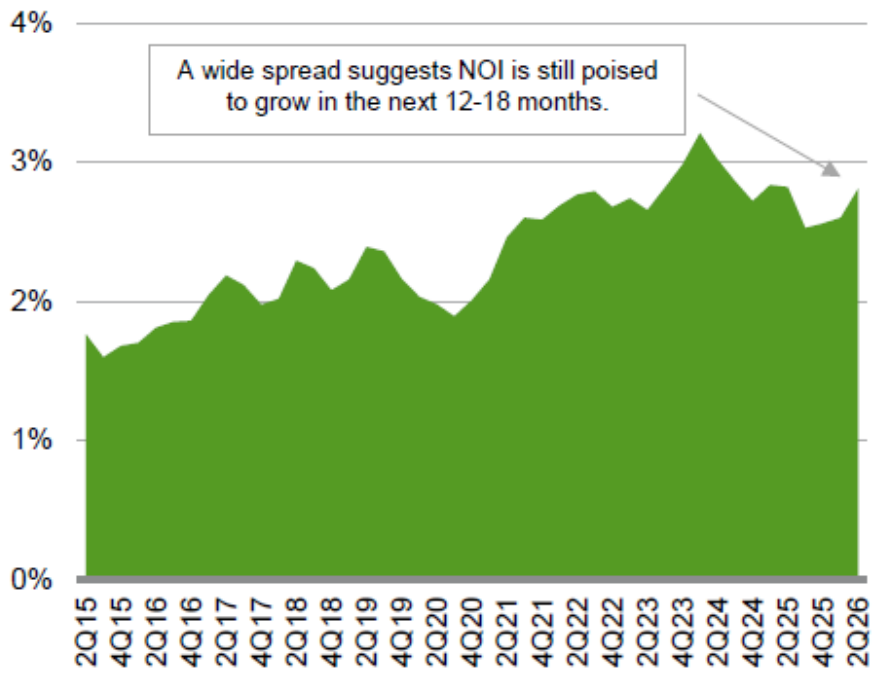

In 2Q 2026, strip center REIT lease rates increased by 10 bps quarter-on-quarter to 96.0%, matching the sector's 20-year high. Supported by resilient retailer demand for space, occupancy levels are expected to remain elevated. Furthermore, the favourable leasing environment should facilitate faster tenant replacement in the event of vacancies, compared with previous market cycles

U.S. Market Update

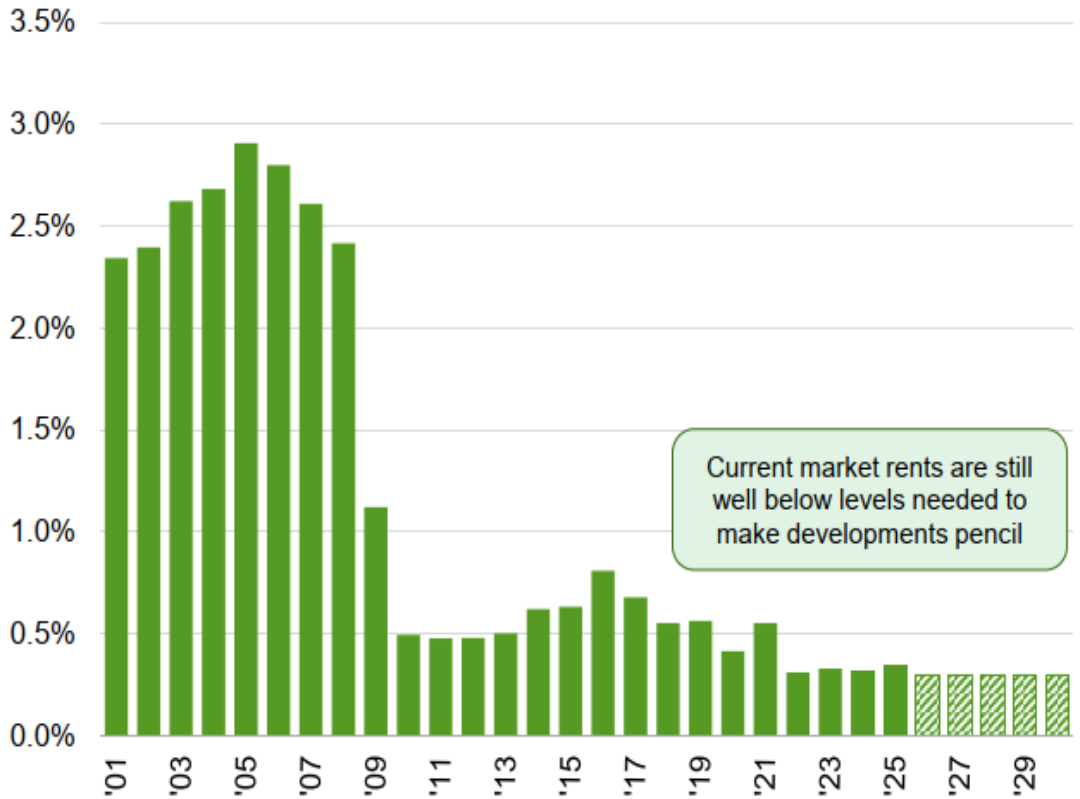

New Supply to Remain Muted Despite Resilient Demand

Limited new development, coupled with robust demand for retail space, continues to underpin healthy retail property fundamentals. Although construction activity varies across markets, even the most active markets are projected to record annual inventory growth of less than 1% over the next five years, reflecting a constrained supply pipeline

AI-Powered Shopping Drives Larger Grocery Baskets and Sales Growth

Retailers Leverage AI to Boost Grocery Sales

Walmart reported that customers using its AI shopping assistant, Sparky, spend 40% more per order than non-users. In the company's second-quarter earnings report, Walmart said Sparky's user base grew 70% year-on-year. Sparky helps customers plan meals, find recipes and add ingredients to their carts with one click. It can also identify ingredients customers have already purchased to avoid duplicate purchases[1]

Kroger's AI-powered shopping assistant is encouraging customers to purchase more items than initially expected. The retailer had anticipated that the tool's tailored recommendations would lead to smaller shopping baskets. However, by simplifying meal planning and grocery list creation, the AI assistant allows customers to spend more time exploring additional products. This has contributed to larger shopping baskets and incremental sales growth. The development highlights AI's potential to improve the shopping experience while boosting grocery sales[2]

DoorDash reports that its AI tools help customers buy more groceries and a wider variety of products. Customers using its Ask DoorDash service also complete their orders faster. Currently, the service generated grocery baskets that were about 50% larger vs non-AI orders. Customers also checked out around three times faster than those not using AI. This highlights AI's potential to improve shopping convenience and increase grocery sales[3]

% Change in Green Street Commercial Property Price Index from June 2020 to September 2026

- Green Street Commercial Property Price Index is a time series of unleveraged U.S. commercial property values that captures the prices at which commercial real estate transactions are currently being negotiated and contracted
- With remote work arrangements here to stay post-pandemic, structural demand for offices is declining and continues to weigh heavily on sector valuations. Commercial property prices for the office sector have declined by 29% since June 2020
- On the other hand, the Strip Center sector has benefitted from the remote work arrangements trend as the additional flexibility has increased demand for the goods and services offered in Strip Centers, ranging from grocery shopping to dining. Strip Center sector values have increased 37% since June 2020
- Similarly, the Self-Storage sector has also benefitted from the work from home dynamic with values increasing by 40% since June 2020
