10. A commentary at the date of the announcement of the significant trends and competitive conditions of the industry in which the group operates and any known factors or events that may affect the group in the next reporting period and the next 12 months.

The global economy is entering a recession this year as the Covid-19 crisis spiral outside Asia. This time will be worse than the global recession of 2001. Should disruption from Covid-19 persist into the third quarter, we should see an even deeper recession, even a depression, with a 0.6% global economic decline. Recent escalation of the coronavirus outbreak in Europe and the U.S, as well as "exceptionally poor January / February data out of China. Although we expect the recession to be front-loaded, with a recovery in the second half, the risks remain on the downside. It also assumes that new infections in those countries will slow sharply after April, following the trajectory of China, Japan and South Korea. It is unclear whether mitigation and testing action taken by Western authorities are sufficient to produce a similarly rapid turn.

The Company has been reaching out to contract principals to determine if the projects that the Group is slated to work on would commence or resume anytime soon. Unfortunately, the Group has yet to receive any definitive guidance on when the aforesaid projects would commence or resume, if at all. The Company has concurrently been looking out for other marine logistics and management contracts to work on. Whilst there has been some progress in the discussions with potential contract principals, there is no assurance that the Group would be able to secure such other contracts and, if secured, such contracts would generate sufficient cash flow for the Group to meet its expenses. In the meantime, the Company has been relying on funding from its controlling shareholder for its cash flow needs. Should the Group continue to be unable to generate sufficient revenue to meet its expenses, the Company may encounter going-concern issues.
