Due to worldwide governments' directives, implementing border control and social distancing measures, some of the Group's live events have been postponed. Nonetheless, with our longstanding relationships with our partners, the artistes and their management companies, the Group's existing pipeline of local and international concerts will be scheduled.

In the meantime, the Group continues to be in talks with various parties, as we look to secure and prepare for the launch of new projects. Industry players have been very supportive, as we work on negotiating for lower fees with our vendors and artistes. We remain committed and optimistic about our business and look forward to executing our projects when the situation permits.

The Group has been exploring new business opportunities to generate additional sources of revenue, an example is live streaming.
