The overall market for wireless audio is still growing but becoming mature and overcrowded. As a result, prices are depressed. Branded products have already differentiated themselves from many cheap unbranded products. Another market that we will consider is the lower-end mass market. We will design for efficiency so as to enjoy some economies of scale. We need to partner closely with branded companies that can complement us as an innovator, differentiator and market leader in niche market segment. We want to leverage on our valuable customer relationship to develop and sell new products. There will be Wi-Fi / Multi room speakers that we will be entering into. We also hope to find ways to take market share from the leaders in this industry.

Annual shipments of wireless audio products, including speakers, sound bars, and AV receivers are expected to reach 66 million units in 2018. The global wireless audio market consists of a small number of tier 1 brands, a larger number of tier 2 brands, and a very large number of tier 3 commodity brands sold directly on the internet. The Group aggressively approaches tier 1 and 2 customers and penetrating the established and growing tier 1 and 2 brands customers is the target for Group's business. Also, the Group continues to develop reseller channels in the US, EU, Canada and Mexico.
