APPENDIX 1
RESPONSES TO SUBSTANTIAL AND RELEVANT QUESTIONS
RECEIVED FROM SHAREHOLDERS

- 1. Has there been any disruptions (stop work days) to the China factories so far in 2022 due to the covid resurgence in China? If so, how many days of work has been stopped?

As at the date of this announcement, our Tianjin plant and Nantong plant have stopped production for 2 days and 5 days respectively in year 2022.

- 2. Any updates on the new plant by Hefei Dansun Packaging Co., Ltd.?

Our Hefei new plant has received the relevant planning approvals from the authorities. We will commence the construction works once we receive the permit.

(Refer to Company's announcements that published on SGXNet dated on 16 July 2019, 17 June 2020, 28 April 2021 and 25 May 2021)

- 3. Can you share your capex plans for 2022?

Please refer to page 102 (Note 28) of Annual Report 2021 for the committed capital expenditure. Please take note that it excludes the construction cost of Hefei new plant.

- 4. Is it possible to share more on the “江苏省六层瓦楞纸箱包装工程技术研究中心项目” by Tat Seng Packaging (Suzhou) Co., Ltd.?

The Group is committed to improve the quality of our products by carrying out various industry package performance testing, which is mainly conducted by the International Safe Transit Association (“ISTA”) test center at our Suzhou plant.

Our Suzhou plant has established a test center accredited by the ISTA and strictly abides the management and operation of ISO/IEC 17025:2005 and issue authoritative test report to the user. ISTA is an international non-profit organization that identifies the best possible shipping solutions by developing and issuing a series of standards, test procedures and projects and other related documents.

- 5. In 2021, how much did the company spend on R&D expense in its Research Centre and ISTA in Tat Seng Packaging (Suzhou) Co., Ltd.? Is that classified under General and Administrative Expenses?

The expenses incurred in relation to ISTA test center is approximately S$172,000 and is mainly classified under general and administrative expenses.
