ART-INSPIRED REJUVENATION AT RENDEZVOUS HOTEL SINGAPORE

Singapore, 17 January 2014 – Far East Hospitality Trust (“Far East H-Trust”) today unveils the transformation of Rendezvous Grand Hotel Singapore after injecting art-inspired elements across multiple experiential points for guests. Located at the heart of Singapore’s art and cultural district, the hotel offers guests easy access to various local attractions, especially the history and art museums at the hotel’s doorstep. The hotel is renamed as Rendezvous Hotel Singapore.

Creating a State of the Art

In reflecting the hotel’s vibrant energy and new artistic personality, several guest touch points were redesigned into a visual spectacle of art with the use of technology. Upon entering the hotel, guests will be greeted by a floor-to-ceiling wall panel behind the reception counter that displays varying color tones throughout the day. In addition, the reception area subtly transforms its color palette from warm orange, purple and magenta to reflect a sense of vibrant excitement during the day, to a soothing, classy warm yellow, cyan and deep blue during the evening.

Rendezvous Hotel Singapore will be an active participant of the local arts scene, offering dedicated spaces to showcase collaborations with local art galleries. Motorized drapes and tracks are installed in the hotel lobby and level two gallery spaces to facilitate art and design-related exhibitions. The bodies of work on display will be made available for guests to view and purchase. The hotel façade facing the junction of Orchard, Stamford and Bras Basah roads will also be transformed into a piece of interactive anamorphic art where pedestrians will be able to see the intended composition at a specific spot diagonally across the street.

In creating stronger synergy across art-related organisations, guests will enjoy special entry rates to museums in the vicinity simply by presenting their key cards at the respective ticketing counters. The attractions currently include the Singapore Philatelic Museum, the Asian Civilisation Museum and the Peranakan Museum. The partnership in promoting art in Singapore was also extended to design students from Raffles College of Higher Education. More than 15 students were invited to submit their design interpretations of Rendezvous Hotel Singapore. The winning design will be incorporated into Rendezvous Hotel Singapore's production of gift and stationery items.

The 298-room Rendezvous Hotel Singapore was acquired by Far East Hospitality Trust in August 2013 and offers guests easy access to the Central Business District and various local attractions, especially the history and art museums at the hotel's doorstep.
