Conclusion

Conclusion

- The proposed restructuring marks the next phase of CapitaLand's strategic transformation
- By restructuring our existing growth businesses into a separate private and public company, we will sharpen our strategic focus, and match each business' risk-return profile with the appropriate capital source and capital structure, thereby enhancing shareholder value
- The proposed consideration implies a substantial premium of 24 – 28%⁽¹⁾ to our historical market price and offers the potential for future long-term value creation
- CLIM targets to grow its FUM and FRE, and achieve a sustainable ROE over COE over the next 5 years by leveraging its unique attributes that are highly valued by public markets:
 - Capital efficiency
 - Scalable investment platform with high growth trajectory in FUM and FRE
 - Best-in-class operations
 - Global leader in long-stay lodging
- Our private development business will continue to play an important role to CLIM as its development and capital partner, as well as incubator and provider of future growth pipeline
- CapitaLand's ecosystem, its values and its focus on sustainable growth have been central to its DNA, success and resilience. We are confident and committed to ensuring that these will be retained
