- ✓ Income resilience continues to be supported by:
  - Limited retail exposure of <2.0% of CRI
  - Highly diversified tenant base with low tenant concentration risk
  - In-place rents are 10.8% below asking rents

Facilitating Re-occupancy and Safe Return to Offices

- Health and safety is a top priority
  - Enhanced cleaning and social distancing protocols, hand sanitising stations, on-premise signage
  - Adoption of technological innovations, self-cleaning elevator buttons and door handle wraps, UV disinfecting robots
- US states in varying stages of re-opening their economies
  - Non-essential businesses have been allowed to reopen with limitations
  - Some states are re-imposing COVID-19 measures as cases spike
- All of KORE's buildings remain accessible to tenants
  - ~20-30% of tenants have begun re-occupancy
  - Ongoing communication with tenants on their re-occupancy plans

The Essential but Ever Changing Office

Potential Office Paradigm Shifts

- Higher levels of remote working and a gradual transition to a more flexible working culture
  - Employees welcome the flexibility to work from home, but still desire to be in office for the majority of the week<sup>(1)</sup>
  - Physical offices remain important for social interaction, collaboration, innovation, talent attraction and retention
- De-densification of existing space for health safety measures and future-proofing their space
- Increased emphasis on flexible lease tenures and adaptable spaces as tenants re-evaluate their space needs

Potential Impact on Office Demand

- Health and safety concerns around mass transit and high density urban cores could see businesses decentralise away from downtown CBD locations
- De-densification and higher sf per worker to offset higher levels of remote working
- Cyclical downturn triggered by COVID-19 will impact short-term demand for office space

- ✓ KORE is well-positioned to benefit from the shift towards well-connected suburbs
- ✓ Distinct portfolio lends itself well to the additional spatial requirements as businesses de-densify
- ✓ Strategic exposure to the fast-expanding tech hubs provides further income resilience as businesses accelerate their digital transformation
- ✓ Quality lifestyle amenities and collaborative spaces remain highly valued by office workers
- ✓ Tenants reassured by transparent communications and proactive engagements.
