2. INFORMATION ON H2U

H2U, spun off from Foxconn Group ("Foxconn") in 2013, is Taiwan's leading digital health brand with a mission to revolutionize the healthcare industry through data-driven solutions and AI technology. Leveraging the healthcare experience of millions of employees of Foxconn, H2U created an enterprise health service platform, providing diverse and optimized employee health benefits. Through mergers and collaborations with numerous health and fitness service partners, H2U has strategically incorporated health services such as the H2U Data-Driven Health Check System, Everyday Health, Sports Notes, and iFit. These efforts prompted the creation of an ecosystem for comprehensive health services.

H2U's proprietary HIS (Hospital Information System) has been adopted by over 70% of health check centers in Taiwan, serving as the foundation to deliver precise health analytics and guidance to both consumers and businesses, and fostering a holistic health ecosystem that covers major aspects, including nutrition, education, sports, and occupational health. In the B2B sector, H2U is the sole provider of digital workplace health services, catering to over 500 companies, including international brands such as Microsoft, Amazon, Gucci, and Chanel. In the B2C sector, H2U's total membership represents 30% of Taiwan's young adult population. This pioneering approach not only marks the first of its kind in Taiwan but also sets an example for managing and scaling personalized healthcare systematically in Asia.

Shareholders and other investors are reminded to exercise caution when dealing in the shares of the Company.
