Change in Leadership at Ixom

Melbourne – Ixom HoldCo Pty Ltd (Ixom), would like to announce that Mr Paul Atkinson, will be appointed as Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of Ixom with effect from 17 June 2019.

Mr Atkinson takes on the role after Mr Dean Draper, who has stepped down as CEO of Ixom, with immediate effect. Mr Matthew Pollard, CEO of Keppel Infrastructure Fund Management Pte Ltd, trustee-manager of Keppel Infrastructure Trust, will be the acting CEO in the interim.

Mr Atkinson graduated from Monash University with a Bachelor of Business and brings more than 34 years of experience in sales, marketing, and general management to Ixom. Currently, he serves as CEO of Prysmian Group in Asia Pacific, a multinational corporation, headquartered in Milan that manufactures electric power transmission and telecommunications cables and systems.

Before that, he held other leadership roles over the last 20 years in the Prysmian Group (formerly Pirelli), including CEO of UK Prysmian Group and CEO of Oceania Prysmian Group.

He has also held roles in management, marketing and product sales across a wide spectrum of companies, such as Pacific Dunlop Limited, Fisher & Paykel Healthcare Corporation Limited, Myer Grace Brothers Department Stores, Black & Decker and Wander (Australia) Pty Ltd.

Mr Andrew Larke, Chairman of Ixom, said, "We are delighted that Paul has chosen to join Ixom. Paul brings with him a strong track record of accelerating growth, as well as developing and leading executive management teams. Together with the support of Ixom's executive leadership team, Paul will play a leading role as we look to sharpen Ixom's focus on delivering more customer-centric solutions."
