Expansion into New Business Activities

HotApp Blockchain Inc. (the "Company") is launching a new enterprise and expanding its activities to include the development and commercialization of Blockchain related technologies and ICO Technology Consulting in addition to the previous activities of the Company. The initial services to be offered include ICO white paper development, Blockchain architecture design and smart contract design, website development and technology consulting services.

The Company announced today its plans to create two new cryptocurrency exchange platforms, one in Asia and one in the United States. Accordingly, the Company has created a new wholly-owned subsidiary, Crypto Exchange Inc., which is intended to conduct such operations. This new plan is currently in the development stage, as the Company identifies and enters into agreements with appropriate new employees, consultants and partners to assist the Company in achieving its goals. The Company intends to provide additional information to the public as such plan is further developed.

In connection with this new plan, the Company has issued a press release dated as of January 26, 2018, attached hereto as Exhibit 99.1.
