4Q Key Business Drivers

4Q Seasonal cargo softness; YoY growth sustained despite geopolitical disruptions

FY25 cargo tonnage for subsidiary was rephased to reflect correct quarterly timing; full-year figures remain unchanged.

Higher QoQ primarily due to commencement of new contract in Brazil from Jan26.

Higher QoQ mainly driven by the CNY peak and increased China domestic travel.

QoQ increase primarily driven by the new contract in Brazil and new operations in Belgium.

4Q Cargo Performance

YoY growth by quarters vs IATA

- Cargo volumes +4.7% YoY, outperforming IATA for the 10th consecutive quarter (+7.9% after adjusting for comparability).
- LFL growth: +3.5% organic growth mainly in EMEAA and APAC, offset by a reduction due to a shift in contractual model (-3.2%).
- Non-LFL growth: +4.4% reflecting new wins across our global network.
- SATS is present in 14⁽¹⁾ out of the Top 30 air cargo stations⁽²⁾, and has direct airside access at all 14 stations.

Outlook

<Public>

<Public>

Outlook

Navigating near-term uncertainty from a position of proven resilience

Cargo

- Global cargo demand fell 4.8% in March, though demand outside Gulf-linked corridors remained resilient; Asia-Pacific and European carriers posted growth of 5.4% and 2.2% respectively, with underlying demand expected to remain firm supported by strong technology sector investment.
- Non-LFL growth continues, driven by new contract wins ramping up across key regions, with the Aviapartner acquisition (Belgium) adding to network breadth.
- E-commerce volumes projected to grow; EU fee implementation may shift trade routes, with SATS well-positioned to capture rerouted flows.

Ground handling

- Global passenger demand grew 2.1% in March, with international markets outside the Middle East growing 8%; Asia-Pacific achieved 11.5% growth as the region absorbed rerouted Europe-Asia traffic.
- Limited Middle East exposure positions SATS favourably amid disruption, with greater presence at alternative hubs.
- Elevated fuel costs may weigh on LCC and narrow-body activity, though cancelled routes are being replaced by new services and added capacity in alternative corridors.
- Wins with Azul and Allegiant Air will continue to drive YoY non LFL growth.

Food

- Aviation demand expected to remain stable as Middle East related cancellations are partially offset by additional flights from carriers such as SQ, though the situation remains fluid.
- Non-aviation demand resilient, with Bangalore and Tianjin kitchens making meaningful progress in facility utilisation.
- Costs remain a watchpoint, with elevated input costs expected to weigh on margins in the near term.
- Integration of NWA with SATS China operations to commence.

Middle East conflict

Assessing the implications of the evolving situation

Immediate impact

- Operations in Saudi Arabia and Oman stations disrupted at the outset.
- Gulf carriers flight cancellations curtailed cargo flows across their global routes.
- Surge in energy prices, raising input costs across our operations.

Current dynamics

- Energy price increases feeding through into broader input cost inflation across utilities, ingredients and packaging.
- Jet fuel shortages have driven price increases and flight cancellations, reducing capacity and dampening cargo volumes.
- SATS' global network capturing cargo re-routing opportunities within the Middle East and across alternative corridors.
- Regional construction generating incremental air cargo demand for industrial supplies and equipment.

Forward scenarios

- Prolonged conflict could sustain higher baseline operating costs across aviation, while broader inflationary pressure poses a risk to the global economy.
- Increased demand and usage of air cargo during times of major disruptions
- A post-conflict recovery could drive a sustained uplift in regional trade volumes, creating longer-term air cargo opportunities for SATS.
- Geopolitical uncertainty is strengthening demand for reliable handlers at stable hubs, where SATS has an established presence.
- SATS' global network and service excellence across both Gateway and Food Service best positioned to capture changes in trade flows
