

June 2, 2014
eAccess Ltd.

Announcement of Completion of Merger

On June 1, 2014, eAccess Ltd. and WILLCOM, Inc. merged and made a fresh start.

Both eAccess and WILLCOM have been pioneers in developing services characterized by fast data speeds and reasonable flat-rate pricing, revolutionizing the mobile industry in Japan.

The new company will take over the businesses of wireless and broadband fixed-line from eAccess and the PHS business from WILLCOM, and plans to become even more engaged in the evolution of smartphones.

The new company, named Ymobile Corporation, will cooperate with Yahoo Japan Corporation and develop the Y!mobile brand in pursuit of the continued improvements of services.

As a comprehensive telecommunications operator that supports the modern information society, we are united in continually promoting the development of innovative services. We remain committed to playing a part in the ongoing information revolution to contribute to our future society. We hope that we can continue to count on your support.

Representative Director, President and CEO
Eric Gan

Outline of the New Company

(1) Name	eAccess Ltd. (to be changed to “Ymobile Corporation”.)
(2) Head office	1-9-2, Higashi-shimbashi, Minato-ku, Tokyo
(3) Title and Name of the representatives	Representative Director, President and CEO Eric Gan Director and COO Hiroyuki Terao Directors Motonari Abe Kenichi Takashima Ken Miyauchi Junichi Miyakawa Kazuhiko Fujihara Shin Murakami
(4) Main business	Telecommunications business
(5) Paid-in capital	¥43,286 million
(6) Establishment	November 1, 1999
(7) Major shareholder and shareholding ratio	SoftBank Corp.: 99.68% (33.29% of the voting rights)