SGX Group crowned “World’s Best Derivatives Exchange” at Euromoney Markets Awards

SGX Group (Singapore Exchange) has been named “World’s Best Derivatives Exchange” at the Euromoney Markets Awards, a recognition of its leadership in establishing a derivatives marketplace of global relevance.

As market structures become more fragmented and regulation increasingly shapes how and where capital can move, SGX Group has strengthened its role as an open, internationally accessible venue for price discovery and risk management spanning equities, foreign exchange and commodities. Euromoney, a leading financial publication, announced the winners of its Markets Awards in London today.

Michael Syn, President of SGX Group, said, “We are honoured to be recognised by Euromoney as the World’s Best Derivatives Exchange. It reflects the confidence our customers place in SGX Group and the dedication of our teams around the world in building a trusted and relevant marketplace. As financial markets face greater uncertainty and rapid shifts in capital flows, we are innovating to help customers better navigate risk and capture opportunities.”

SGX Group operates one of the world’s leading international derivatives marketplaces, connecting global investors to opportunities and risk-management solutions across asset classes. It continues to expand its derivatives ecosystem through product innovation, deep market liquidity, robust infrastructure and close collaboration with customers and market participants.
