Singapore, 23 October 2026 – SGX Mainboard-listed Wee Hur Holdings Limited (“Wee Hur”) [伟合控股有限公司] and BE Education Group (“BE Education”) have appointed Craig Considine, who has served as Chief Executive Officer of Tanglin Trust School since 2018, as Founding Head of Wycombe Abbey School (Singapore). Bringing more than 25 years of senior school leadership experience, he will lead the creation of a learning community that combines Wycombe Abbey’s academic ambition and whole-child ethos with a forward-looking approach to education. He will take up the role in August 2027, ahead of the school’s planned full opening in September 2028.

The appointment was announced at a reception in Singapore on 23 October, attended by Jo Duncan, Headmistress of Wycombe Abbey; Patrick Sherrington, Chair of Wycombe Abbey International; and Scott Bryan, Managing Director of Wycombe Abbey International. The reception brought together the leadership of Wycombe Abbey in the UK, Wycombe Abbey International and the school's founding partners, BE Education and Wee Hur, to mark Craig's appointment.

Craig Considine has served as Chief Executive Officer of Tanglin Trust School since 2018, following ten years as Headmaster of Millfield School in England and an earlier headship at Whanganui Collegiate School in New Zealand. With senior leadership experience at some of the world's most respected schools, he combines deep knowledge of Singapore's international education community with a background in British boarding education. His earlier career in professional Australian Rules football and athletics also informs his commitment to teamwork, resilience and developing individual talent.

His experience in leading established international schools, overseeing institutional development and transformation, and maintaining high educational standards will be instrumental in shaping Wycombe Abbey School (Singapore) as it prepares to welcome its first students.

"Wycombe Abbey's academic rigour and commitment to educating the whole child are what drew me to this role. The opportunity to build a new school in Singapore, where my family and I have lived for eight years, is particularly meaningful. My vision is to establish a school where every pupil is known, challenged and inspired: one that combines British educational heritage with a forward-looking approach that develops young people's abilities, character and confidence. I look forward to working with our founding team and families to create a learning community that Singapore can be proud of." – Craig Considine, Founding Head, Wycombe Abbey School (Singapore)

"Choosing the Founding Head is one of the most important decisions in establishing a school. Craig brings a combination of experience in British education, an understanding of Singapore families and a commitment to developing the whole child. These qualities make him well suited to lead Wycombe Abbey School (Singapore), build its founding team and establish its culture from the outset. As we continue to grow the Wycombe Abbey family across Asia, Craig's leadership will ensure that our Singapore school builds a distinctive identity of its own, drawing on the uncompromising standards of Wycombe Abbey UK and our deep experience throughout Asia, ready to serve pupils and families for many years to come.” – William Vanbergen, Founder and Chairman, BE Education Group; Chairman, Wycombe Abbey School International Advisory Board team to establish a school that will serve generations of students.” – Goh Wee Ping, Chief Investment Officer, Wee Hur Holdings and Chief Executive Officer, Wee Hur Capital.

Singapore’s International School Landscape

Singapore’s international school sector is one of the most tightly regulated in the region. New capacity is controlled by the Economic Development Board, and supply is spread across more than 60 international schools. Premium schools typically operate at full occupancy with active waitlists, and families often apply 12 to 18 months in advance to secure a place.

Demand continues to be supported by corporate relocation and foreign direct investment into Singapore, regional families choosing Singapore as an education hub, and a preference for academically rigorous, values-based education.
