AEM Receives Intel EPIC Supplier Award

Singapore, 19 March 2026 – AEM Holdings Ltd. (“AEM” or “the Group”), a global leader in test innovation, today announced that it has received the 2026 Intel EPIC Supplier Award, the highest supplier recognition from Intel for its performance, innovation, and collaboration within Intel’s global supply chain.

The Intel EPIC Supplier Award recognizes top-performing suppliers that demonstrate excellence in quality, technology innovation, operational performance, and continuous improvement. Among thousands of companies across Intel’s global network, only 41 suppliers were selected to receive the EPIC Supplier Award for achieving the highest standards of execution and strategic partnership. EPIC represents Intel’s core supplier performance pillars of Excellence, Partnership, Inclusion, and Continuous Improvement.

This recognition reflects AEM’s commitment to engineering innovation, operational reliability, and close collaboration with its customers. It further reinforces the Group’s position as a trusted partner to leading semiconductor manufacturers and highlights its ability to deliver high-performance solutions that enable the production of advanced semiconductor devices.

Samer Kabbani, Chief Executive Officer of AEM, said, “We are deeply honored to receive the Intel EPIC Supplier Award in recognition of AEM’s outstanding performance in 2025. I am incredibly proud of our global team, whose passion, innovation, and execution made this achievement possible. As artificial intelligence accelerates a generational leap in semiconductor performance, test architectures, power density, and thermal technologies are now foundational enablers of next-generation computing. We look forward to further expanding our partnership with Intel and IFS as we advance the future of AI-driven silicon.”
