SINGAPORE AIRLINES CUTS CAPACITY FURTHER IN RESPONSE TO GLOBAL BORDER CLOSURES

Singapore Airlines is suspending additional services across its network amid an unprecedented time in the airline industry, when countries around the world impose border controls to stem the Covid-19 outbreak.¹

Today's suspensions mean that SIA will operate only 50% of the capacity that had been originally scheduled up to end-April.² Given the growing scale of the border controls globally and its deepening impact on air travel, SIA expects to make further cuts to its capacity.

SIA CEO Goh Choon Phong said: "We have lost a large amount of our traffic in a very short time, and it will not be viable for us to maintain our current network. Make no mistake – we expect the pace of this deterioration to accelerate. The SIA Group must be prepared for a prolonged period of difficulty."

The Company is actively taking steps to build up our liquidity. The SIA Group will also consult the unions once again as it urgently takes steps to further cut costs. Additional measures will be announced when they have been firmed up.

¹ Full details about the suspended flights will be announced on the SIA website on 18 March 2020.

² Customers may wish to note that tickets for flights that are cancelled will be automatically converted into an open ticket for travel that only needs to be completed by 31 March 2021. Due to the large number of flight cuts, affected customers do not need to contact SIA directly. They only need to provide their details in a form found here (<https://www.singaporeair.com/request.form>) when their new travel plans have been firmed up, and our customer service agents will contact them.
