CHAIRMAN : Mr. Pun Chi Tung Melvyn, the Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of the Board of Directors

1. INTRODUCTION

Mr. Pun Chi Tung Melvyn, the Chairman and Chief Executive Officer (“Chairman”), informed the Meeting that the share registrar had verified that the number of shareholders of the Company (“Shareholders”) present was sufficient to form a quorum.

The Chairman introduced the Board of Directors who were participating in the proceedings.

2. OPENING SPEECH AND PRESENTATION BY THE CHAIRMAN

The Chairman gave an opening speech and presented the slides which had been published on the SGXNet and the Company’s website on 31 July 2025 to the Shareholders.

3. QUESTIONS AND RESPONSES

The Chairman informed the Shareholders that as set out in the notice of the AGM to the Shareholders dated 16 July 2025 (“Notice of AGM”), the Shareholders could submit questions relating to the business of the Meeting prior to the Meeting, or pose questions at the Meeting. The Company had addressed substantial and relevant questions received from the Shareholders prior to the Meeting through publications made on the SGXNet and the Company’s website on 25 July 2025.

Shareholder A noted that both the Annual Report (“Annual Report”) for the financial year ended 31 March 2025 (“FY2025”) and trading updates for the quarter ended 30 June 2025 reflected that Wave Money had experienced a decrease in revenue. The Annual Report attributed the decrease in revenue to Wave Money’s over-the-counter (“OTC”) business. Shareholder A queried what was Wave Money’s OTC business. Mr. Ben Koo, the Head of Yoma Financial Services (“Head of YFS”) informed the Meeting that Wave Money’s OTC business was a domestic cash remittance business supported by a network of over 50,000 active agents reaching into Myanmar’s regional areas. The OTC business had been a key source of Wave Money’s revenue over the past 9 years, but was increasingly coming under pressure. Accordingly, Wave Money was shifting its focus to the digital wallet business. 9 years ago, Myanmar people would send money from cities to regional areas by bus, which was expensive, time-consuming, uncertain and gave rise to trust issues when entrusting bus drivers with cash. Wave Money’s OTC business allowed Myanmar people to send money from cities to Wave shops in regional areas instantaneously through a secure platform. Currently, the OTC business still represented 50% of Wave Money’s revenue. Wave Money’s OTC business was experiencing challenges as Myanmar people were increasingly using digital wallets. Wave Money has been focusing on utilising its agent network, which was a key advantage that no other digital player in the market possessed, to facilitate the cross-over between the cash and digital ecosystems. For example, Wave Money has been offering remote cash-in options for banking customers and targeting small businesses without easy access to bank branches. In addition, as a majority of Myanmar people did not have a bank account, Wave Money offers a means for Myanmar people to transfer cash directly into the digital wallet.

Shareholder A queried whether the decrease in revenue from Wave Money's OTC business was structural due to a shift to a digital system or a one-off occurrence due to events in Myanmar such as the earthquake in March 2025. The Head of YFS informed the Meeting that there was both a structural shift as well as an impact from the recent events in Myanmar. The earthquake had affected the availability of electricity and disrupted the mobile network. It had also made it more difficult to find active agents to travel to regional areas, and mobile wallets were charging a premium to withdraw cash. These factors had impacted Wave Money's OTC business in the short term. In order to alleviate the impact of the earthquake, Wave Money had used Yoma Fleet vehicles to enable agents to travel to key areas to offer cash services. It might be some time before the OTC business in the regional areas recovered. There was also a broader structural shift away from the OTC business, as the traditional use case of domestic remittance of cash from cities to the regional areas was declining over time. The Company was approaching Wave Money as an ecosystem comprising digital wallet customers, the agent network and the merchant network. Wave Money aimed to promote the overall circulation of funds within this ecosystem.

Shareholder A queried whether the political situation in Myanmar was more stable currently. The Chairman informed the Meeting that on a day-to-day basis, business in Myanmar was running normally without any disruptions.

Shareholder A queried whether it was an issue that the Company had experienced a declining net asset value ("NAV") over the past few years despite its strong performance, and noted that this was largely due to the depreciation of MMK. Mr. JR Ching, the Chief Financial Officer of the Company ("Chief Financial Officer"), informed the Meeting that the decline in NAV over the past few years had been caused by a number of factors. The depreciation of MMK was a large contributing factor. However, based on overall momentum, the Group's business was moving towards becoming profitable, which was the first step in rebuilding the NAV and retained earnings.

Shareholder A queried whether the Company's land bank was held at historic cost, and noted that if so, there would be an upside to the NAV from the land bank. The Chief Financial Officer informed the Meeting that the land bank was held at historic cost as at the time the Company acquired the land development rights.

Shareholder A queried as to the development opportunities arising from the need to redevelop areas affected by the earthquake. The Chairman informed the Meeting that over the past 6 months to 1 year, Yoma Land had been actively considering opportunities for development beyond StarCity and Pun Hlaing Estate ("PHE"). The earthquake had resulted in the destruction of many buildings, giving rise to the need to build new communities in areas such as Mandalay and Naypyidaw. This fit into Yoma Land's overall direction to develop new projects outside of StarCity and PHE. Yoma Land was considering a number of options, including partnerships with owners of large tracts of land which could be used to build new estates, as well as the redevelopment of areas affected by the earthquake. The Company was keen to expand Yoma Land's development projects given the success of StarCity and PHE.

Shareholder B queried whether the Company was considering expanding its business outside of Myanmar to cater to the large Myanmar population outside of Myanmar, particularly since local conditions in Myanmar were challenging. The Chairman informed the Meeting that it was estimated that there were about 5 to 10 million Myanmar people located in Thailand, and at least 1 million Myanmar people located in Malaysia. The Myanmar population outside of Myanmar had significant spending power, and the Company was considering how to serve these customers and leverage the strengths of its platforms overseas. Currently, one avenue for expansion was YKKO. YKKO served a Myanmar vermicelli noodle dish which had been popular amongst Myanmar people for the past 30 years. The noodle dish had a distinctive local flavour, and evoked childhood memories amongst Myanmar people. The Company was expanding YKKO to markets outside of Myanmar, including Thailand and potentially Singapore. Another avenue for expansion was international remittance. The Company was exploring a partnership with a Malaysian payroll services company. The partnership would involve the Malaysian company using Wave Money as an avenue for international remittance, and the Company intended to launch similar services in Thailand. These avenues for expansion outside of Myanmar leveraged the Company's existing reputation and network. The Company was not currently considering offering tokenisation services to Myanmar people located outside of Myanmar. Regulations in Myanmar were not mature in this space, and there were concerns about circumventing the domestic financial system.

Shareholder C queried as to the reason for the decrease in monthly active users ("active users") of Wave Money in FY2025. The Head of YFS informed the Meeting that active users referred to the number of users of the Wave Money network over the past 90 days. The key reason for the decrease in active users was the disruptions in Myanmar. About half of the country was experiencing some level of conflict, resulting in road blockages, electricity outages and internet blackouts. While the Company's other businesses such as Yoma Land and Yoma F&B operated in key cities, Wave Money operated throughout Myanmar. Areas involved in conflict could not be continuously accessed and served by Wave Money. This was likely to be a temporary issue as accessibility would improve with peace and stability. However, part of the reason for the decrease in active users was also attributable to the structural shift away from the OTC business.

Shareholder C queried whether the Company was considering debt hedging in light of the depreciation of MMK. The Chairman informed the Meeting that the Company was not considering taking up new financial instruments for debt hedging, as these were generally not readily available in the local market and were considered too complicated to be implemented in the current environment. The Company had adopted a more practical approach by taking up local currency debt to match the local currency revenue. Where possible, the Company would seek to enter into contracts and receive payments in USD. The Chief Financial Officer informed the Meeting that from a cost management perspective, the Company had also been making an effort to localise costs over the past 5 years, including localising supply chains and transitioning from expatriate to local employees. The Head of YFS informed the Meeting that in respect of Wave Money, expatriate salaries had been reduced by approximately 60% over the past 2 years.

Shareholder C queried as to the performance of the WaveScore credit scoring service. The Head of YFS informed the Meeting that a few pilot programmes had been conducted for WaveScore. The results were encouraging. Based on a study of regional trends, Wave Money had determined that a reasonable loss rate for consumer unsecured credit products was approximately 5%. In reality, the loss rate was lower in Myanmar compared to other regional markets. This could be attributed to the lack of formal credit alternatives in Myanmar. If Myanmar people were unable to obtain loans from formal creditors, they would turn to informal lenders, who typically charge significantly higher interest rates. WaveScore, therefore, enable Myanmar people to receive better credit options. So far, the pilot programmes showed strong repayment performance and loss rates below expectations. Wave Money was also able to make day-to-day collections through the Wave ecosystem. WaveScore could also be used in conjunction with Wave Money's international remittance services by offering Myanmar people located outside of Myanmar access to credit products. Myanmar people located outside of Myanmar might not have access to overseas credit systems or might be subject to higher interest rates than what locals paid.

Shareholder D queried whether the MMQR system used by Wave Money could be connected to QR payment systems in Singapore. The Chairman informed the Meeting that MMQR was currently run by PayPlus, a government owned entity, but would be owned by Myanmar banks and payment service companies in the future. There was potentially a pathway for the MMQR system to be connected to other ASEAN QR payment systems, but this was not expected to occur in the near future due to technical and other challenges.

Shareholder D queried whether the Company was considering collaborating with English tuition centres in Singapore to provide English education to Myanmar people. The Chairman informed the Meeting that the Company constantly considered opportunities to address the needs of the Myanmar community, including education opportunities. StarCity was currently exploring a collaboration with a company that offers English language education and general job training for remote work, as part of its broader community development initiative.

Shareholder D queried how Mr. Serge Pun was. The Chairman informed the Meeting that Mr. Serge Pun was well and healthy and currently residing in Yangon. Although Mr. Serge Pun had retired from his role as Executive Chairman of the Company, he remains a mentor and provides valuable guidance to the team in Myanmar. The Chairman expressed appreciation to Shareholder D for his well wishes.

4. PROCEEDINGS

The Chairman informed the Shareholders that photographic, sound and/or video recordings might be made for record keeping and to ensure the accuracy of the minutes prepared of the Meeting, and accordingly the personal data of Shareholders might be recorded for such purposes.

The Chairman informed the Shareholders that he would first propose each resolution in turn and then invite questions from the Shareholders before asking for the resolution to be seconded. Each resolution would be put to the Meeting after it had been proposed, and the Shareholders would cast their votes electronically.

Pursuant to Regulation 79 of the Constitution of the Company and Rule 730A(2) of the Listing Manual of the Singapore Exchange Securities Trading Limited, the Chairman directed that all resolutions proposed at the Meeting be put to vote by way of poll.

The Chairman informed the Meeting that CACS Corporate Advisory Pte. Ltd. had been appointed as the Scrutineer and Complete Corporate Services Pte. Ltd. had been appointed as the Polling Agent. The Polling Agent explained the poll procedures to the Shareholders.

The Chairman informed the Meeting that he had been appointed as proxy by numerous Shareholders and would vote according to such Shareholders' instructions.
